Another thing that helped to make the witness nervous was the crowding of the court room. Every available sent was taken, and those unable to get seats stood in the rear. The min-ber of women present was greater than at any other time since the trial was transferred from Waterbury, and Soph-le complained of their staring at her and making sudible comments as to her appearance. Twice it was neces-sary during the day to call on the local police department to clear the halfs of the court house and in order to keep them clear a policeman was detailed for that purpose.

The despatch received by The Mail over the name of its Falmouth correspondent, told of an alleged hostile demonstration of its Falmouth correspondent, told of an alleged hostile demonstration against David Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer. The latter impugned the accuracy of the report and an inquiry showed that it had been sent by Horner, who had formerly brought a libel suit against The Mall. The prosecution suggested that Horner had been actuated by vindictiveness.

Counsel Kennedy Objects to Questions.

At the conclusion of the reading of the letters, Mr. Kellogg started to read from the evidence given before Coroner Makepease at the two inquests held at Waterbury shortly after the death of Kulvinskas in the Waterbury hospital. Mr. Kennedy objected to the asking of the questions, and the jury was asked to retire while the matter was argued. Mr. Kennedy took the ground that Sophie had been denied the assistance of counsel and had not been allowed to see any members of her family while in the police station at Waterbury. Sophie was put on the stand and asked if she had been allowed to see any members of her family while in the police station at Waterbury. Sophie was put on the stand and asked if she had been allowed to see her mother, and she said she had not; that at one time she had put her ear to the keyhole of the cell in which she was locked and had heard her mother talking to Captain Bannon and Captain Dodds of the Waterbury police force, and that after her mother had left she asked Captain Bannon if her mother talking to Captain Bannon if her mother talking to Captain Bannon if her mother talking to Captain Bannon, who has died since that time, had not said anything of the kind. COLORED OFFICERS ORDERED

Washington, March 11.—Three officers who were attached to the Twenty-fifth infantry at the time of the shooting at Brownsville, Texas, have been ordered before the military court of inquiry which has been investigating the affair here. Capt. Edward A. Macklin, Capt. Samuel P. Lyon and Second Lieut. George C. Lawrason are the officers. They probably will be the last witnesses to be examined and the court expects to give its report to congress early in April.

While none of the negro soldiers discharged by President Roosevelt has been convicted by the court of complicity in the shooting, it is also a fact that court has reported none of them asqualified for re-enlistment under the terms of the Foraker resolution.
